Dear Jim

Planning application 2010/0754
5a East Bank

There is no description of materials on the application form, but materials are noted in Design and Access Statement and on drawings. The scheme has had much pre-application advice and appears to have taken much of this on board. The mostly brick elevation with render and timber on the upper levels is solid. Overall, the scheme is neither poor nor bad quality, but is slightly unremarkable in its design.

The Hackney Society welcomes the larger social units for large families in area where this type of unit is in short supply.

Overall, the Hackney Society has no objections to the scheme.

Please confirm receipt of these comments.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes
